VOL 30 BLOOMSBURG, PA., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1895. NO 39

SUNDAY AT ST. PAUL'S

Reception to the Bishop—Institution of the Rector in the Morning—Confirmation in the Evening.

Right Reverend N. S. Rulison, Bishop of Central Pennsylvania, arrived in Bloomsburg on Saturday afternoon last, from Danville, where he had instituted the Rev. Mr. Blunt as rector of Christ church. He was accompanied by Rev. D. N. Kirkby, who went down to attend the service at Danville. The Bishop was entertained at the Rectory during his visit here.

On Saturday evening a reception was held in the Parish House, which was attended by many members of the congregation. Refreshments were served by the ladies, and an hour or more was pleasantly passed in shaking hands with the Bishop and in social intercourse.

On Sunday morning at half past ten there was an interesting service. At the last strokes of the bell the choir consisting of twenty young ladies, men and boys, began the hymn, "Oft in danger, oft in woe," and at the second verse entered the church. The members of the vestry, C. F. Knapp, J. G. Freeze, Geo. E. Elwell, Paul E. Wirt, G. S. Robbins and J. G. Wells followed the choir. J. R. Townsend was unable to be present, owing to his illness. After the vestry came the rector, followed by the Bishop.

The Senior and Junior Wardens, Messrs. Knapp and Freeze, entered the chancel and occupied seats at the rail, the other members of the vestry sitting on the front seat in the church.

At the close of morning prayer the office of institution was read. The Bishop standing within the rails of the altar, said: "Dearly beloved in the Lord, we have assembled for the purpose of instituting the Rev. David N. Kirkby into this parish as priest and rector of the same; and we are possessed of your vote that he has been so elected, as also of the prescribed letter of institution. But if any of you can show just cause why he may not be instituted, we proceed no further, because we would not that an unworthy person should minister among you."

The Bishop then read the letter of institution, after which Col. Freeze, acting for the Senior Warden, presented the keys of the church to the rector with these words: "In the name and behalf of St. Paul's church, Bloomsburg, I do receive and acknowledge you, the Rev. David N. Kirkby, as priest and rector of the same; and in token thereof, give into your hands the keys of this church." To this the incumbent responded: "I, David N. Kirkby, receive these keys of the House of God at your hands, as the pledges of my institution, and of your parochial recognition, and promise to be a faithful shepherd over you; in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." Then followed prayers by the rector, after which the Bishop received the incumbent within the rails of the altar, and presented him the Bible, the Prayer Book, and the books of Canons of the general and diocesan conventions, saying: "Receive these books, and let them be the rule of thy conduct in dispensing the Divine word, in leading the devotions of the people, and in exercising the discipline of the church; and be thou in all things a pattern to the flock committed to thy care." The office closed with prayers. The Bishop preached an eloquent sermon, giving sound advice to the congregation, and closed with an address to the new rector. The Holy Communion was administered to about eighty persons.

In the evening at 7:30 the church was again filled. After evening prayer the Bishop preached another excellent sermon, occupying three quarters of an hour, which was listened to most attentively and pleasurably by the congregation, notwithstanding the extreme heat.

A class of nineteen persons was confirmed, which, considering the short time for preparation by the rector, was an unusually large number. The following persons united with the church:

Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Hendershott, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Dillon, Mrs. W. H. House and daughter Cora, Pauline Wirt, Lillian M. Bernhard, Clara B. Cole, Helen Warner, Natalie Foulk, Harry Wilson, Edmund Savage, Horace Blue, Boyd Cadman, Clinton Moore, William Dawson, Harry Stees, and Carl Bernhard.

All the services of the day were exceedingly impressive and interesting, and the music by the choir was complimented by the Bishop and many others, and it was worthy of high praise.

The Bishop departed on Monday morning for his home in South Bethlehem.

A NEW DEPARTURE.

We were shown a few days since a new street car truck which is being built at the Bloomsburg Car Co's. Shop. It is the first one that has ever been built in this section of the State and is complete in every detail. The wheels used are those of the Buffalo, New York Co. and are thirty-three inches in diameter, being the patent of David King, Master Mechanic of the Erie and Wyoming Rail Road Company, who also is the owner of the patent of the yielding side bearings for freight cars. The truck weighs 7000 pounds and will carry 120 people, being double the number usually carried. Owing to the yielding side bearings it runs easy and smoothly and will undoubtedly mark a new departure in street car tracks. They have received a large order.

THAT FISH DINNER.

Shamokin Dam fish dinners are snynonymous with a good time, and hence when any one receives an invitation to attend one he generally goes. There was one held there last Friday and was attended by the following named gentlemen from this place. J. K. Lockard, F. D. Dentler, A. M. Derr, C. B. Ohl, I. D. White, Harvey Deiterich, E. H. Harrar, E. P. Williams, Joseph Ratti, P. S. Harman, W. H. Magill, Judah Boone, C. P. Elwell and W. U. Jury. There were also parties present from Danville, Milton and Selinsgrove, and all voted it a royal good time.

Has Received It.

The highest ambition in the life of a Mason is to receive the 33rd degree in the Scottish Rites, the highest in the Masonic Order, and as it can be held by only thirty-three members in each State it is an honor rarely conferred. H. A. McKillip Esq., has received it, and has also been made a Grand Cross in the Knights of Constantine. This is still more exclusive as there can be but fifty at a time in the whole United States. C. F. Knapp and Mr. McKillip are the only gentlemen residing in this Town who are 33rd degree members.

CARPET MILL NEWS.

The new tapestry plant is completed and twenty-one tapestry looms have been placed in positions. The brick work in the machine shop is finished, and work on the spinning plant has been suspended for a few days, owing to want of material. The fence surrunding the place has been painted which adds very much to its appearance. At present employment is given to about 200 people, and when these improvements are all completed they will employ about 150 more.

UNIQUE COLLECTION.

The collection of badges &c, which Mr. James Staver has, is the finest we have ever seen and he takes great pride in showing it to his friends.

During the late conclave of the Knights Templar which was held at Boston, Mass., he added considerably to it. They are of all conceivable shapes, colors and designs, many being very unique and suggestive, notably among which, is a strip of satin from which was suspended a pot of beans representing a commandery from Boston. A commandery from San Francisco brought with it a live bear and their badge was a reproduction of it. One from Georgia had a cotton bud half opened.

The badges from Michigan are made of copper and represent the important industry of that State. The wealthiest commandery there was No. 1 of San Francisco, each member of which was assessed $1500 for the expenses of the conclave. He intends having them mounted and in the years to come they will help him to recall many happy memories.

AN ENJOYABLE OCCASION.

Will be the lawn sociable on Friday evening of this week in front of the Lutheran church. Every member of the church and Sunday School is interested and will be there with their friends. It is the introduction to the season's work and everybody will be heartily welcomed. The Sunday School will provide ice cream and cake and the proceeds are for the purchase of a new song book for the School. The parlors of the church will be open for any who prefer sitting in doors. Music, and social games, and beautiful illuminations and a good time generally.

Judge Ikeler on Tuesday morning presented the members of the bar and the attachees of the Court with a large basket of deliciousgrapes. It was very considerate on the part of the Court and greatly appreciated by the recipients.

J. S. Blue's handsome new house on East Street is rapidly approaching completion, and he expects to move into it about the middle of October.

IT'S.....
HARDLY.....
NECESSARY.....

To go into detail about the make, fit and finish of every garment that we turn out. The fact that our stock embraces the very best makes in the land, barring none, is a sufficient guarantee. Rochester is noted for its superior clothing, but as in everything else, some manufacturers sell goods on the well-earned reputation of those who justly deserve it. For instance, "The Stein Bloch Co. and. L. Adler Bros. & Co." are the recognized fine clothing manufacturers of this country, and don't be deceived into believing that your clothing is high class unless this label or L. Adler Bros. & Co. is on your suit and overcoat. While the garment will be the best made and superior to ordinary custom work, the price is no higher than that asked for ordinary ready made goods. The proof of the pudding is the eating of it. The only way that we can prove our statements is by just comparison.

WORDS WHICH HAVE CHANGED.

Fairy was once a beautiful woman.

Villa formerly meant a farm and not a house.

Girl formerly signified any young person of either sex.

Duke once meant any leader. The word is from the Latin.

Hag once meant any old person, whether male or female.

Gallon was originally a pitcher or jar, no matter of what size.

Jade originally signified any rude person, without regard to sex.

Craven was at first a man who had craved or begged his life of an enemy.

Polite at first meant polished, and was applied to any smooth, shining surface.

The word idea formerly meant a completed performance, whether mental or physical.

Pragmatical originally meant nothing worse than complete absorption in business affairs.

The word tomboy, now applied to a rude young woman, formerly meant a rude young man or boy.

Furlong was at first a furrow long, or the distance that a pair of oxen would plow in half an hour.

Shrewd once signified evil or wicked. Thomas Fuller uses the expression "a shrewd fellow," meaning a wicked man.

The word hoyden, now applied exclusively to a noisy young woman, formerly denoted a person of like character, but of either sex.

Equivocation, a word now applied to any evasion, was once understood to mean the calling of diverse things by the same name.

Peck at first meant a basket or receptacle for grain or other substances. The expression at first had no reference to size.

Starve was once to die any manner of death. Wycliffe's sermons tell how "Christ starved on the cross for the redemption of men."

Acre once meant any field. It is still used with this significance by the Germans, who speak of God's acre, alluding to the cemetery.

Bombast once signified the cotton that was employed to stuff garments, particularly the enormous trunk hose worn in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries.

Termagent was formerly a quarrelsome person of either sex, and only the lack of gallantry of the men has limited the word to its present significance.

Town originally signified a farm or farm house. It is used in Wycliffe in this sense, "and they went their ways, one to his town, another to his merchandise."

GREAT MEN NOT HAPPY.

Too Many Cares to Leave Room for Enjoyment

It has been the same as a rule with all men who have played a distinguished part in history. Caesar was in no sense a happy man; Alexander did not achieve contentment and enjoyment; Napoleon was never free from entangling perplexities and pleasure-denying apprehensions. The cases in which greatness and happiness have existed together can be counted on the fingers of one hand. Washington should have been happy, considering the measure of his success, but we know that his life was embittered by the malice of his enemies. Lincoln deserved happiness, if ever any man did, but it is doubtful if he realized even as much as one day of it. The familiar aphorism, "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown," is applicable to conspicuous characters in every age. The things that seem to signify happiness are in reality a source of perpetual worry and difficulty. Wherever there is much power, there is corresponding danger and responsibility. The strain never relaxes; the time never comes when peace of mind is assured; the pack of trouble falls from the shoulders only in the last scene, as the curtain descends upon the completed tragedy, and history takes up the theme and calmly proceeds to specify its lessons of usefulness, either for emulation or for avoidance.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Man Who Was Called.

At midnight the other night a patrolman found a man sleeping soundly under a tree in one of the circus parks, and tapping him on his feet with the baton he called to him to get up.

"Am I called?" queried the man as he sat up and looked around.

"You are. You must move on."

"Yes, I expect I must. I should like your name before I go."

"What do you want of my name?"

"To preserve in the archives of my memory. You could have brained me while I slept, but you didn't do it. I am poor and grateful. I wish to carry your name around during the rest of my life in my vest pocket. What did you say it was?"

"Never mind about names. You will move on."

"Certainly, but I shall always hold you in grateful remembrance. You could have broken one of my kneecaps or pounded out one of my eyes, but did you do it? No! If you do not wish me to carry your name around with me give me the name of your favorite uncle or brother-in-law or nephew. It will answer the same purpose."

"No one is allowed to sleep in the parks, either on the grass or benches," said the officer, "and you had best take yourself off."

"I know it, and I'm going. I know of a vacant lot up here where I can bunk down in a thistle-patch and sleep the night out. Officer, why didn't you lame me for life when you found me asleep? Because you are not that kind of a hair-pin. You are a man of pity and sympathy. That is why I should like your name scratched on a piece of tin and carried next to my heart!"

"I'm not going to fool with you much longer!" admonished the officer. "I want you to skip out o' this!"

"Of course you do, and skip I shall. Can I have your name?"

"No, sir!"

"Nor the name of a favorite relative?"

"No, sir!"

"Will you give me something to remember you by?"

"I will!" replied the officer, and he tapped him smartly on the head with his baton.

"Thanks!" replied the man as he removed his hat, and bowed. "Your memory is now engraven on my skull forever, and will go with me to my grave! Every time I scratch my head I shall think of your great kindness to one who needed sympathy. Officer, I go—farewell—I'm gone!"—Detroit Free Press.

Sensible Woman—Sensible Girl.

A young girl came to New York last winter to study art. She was alone, almost penniless and well-nigh friendless. The one person that she knew in the big, strange city, was, however, a woman of means and influence. She was also a woman of sense, and so, instead of simply providing the girl with the wherewithal to study, she gave her advice. "Earn the money yourself," she said, "and your success will be all the sweeter for having done so." She further recommended domestic service as the safest and easiest means of procuring the desired capital. The girl accepted the advice and obtained a place as housemaid with a suburban family. Her wages were good, she had a comfortable home, her wants were few, and before long she was saving money. Next winter she will enter the art school. But how many young women would have been willing to do the same thing?—New York Evening Sun.

Some Hope.

"Young man," said the sage, "I hear you are about to be married?"

"You are right," said the young man.

"Well, young man, the day will come when your wife will make the discovery that you do not know everything on earth. It will be a great shock to her feelings, and your supremacy. Still, there is hope for you. You, while cheerfully admitting that you do not know it all, may be able to persuade her that the reason for that state of things is that there is so much in the world that is not worth knowing."—Indianapolis Journal.

Provision for the Future.

"Have you," said the parson gravely to the couple about to be married, "fully considered and prayed for the responsibilities of the married state?"

"We have," promptly replied the would-be groom, "we have entered into a sixty year contract with an employment bureau to furnish one new servant girl a week during that period."

The ceremony proceeded.—Buffalo Express.

ABOUT KISSES.

Will the coming woman ask for a kiss, or will she slyly take it off before a man knows what she is up to?—Galveston News.

The wearing of bloomers and knickerbockers is evidently likely to produce some new social distinctions. According to a Liverpool paper, a young man was arrested recently in that city, charged with kissing a woman against her will, in the public highway. The prisoner pleaded that she was in bloomers, and that he mistook her for a long-lost brother. The magistrate discharged him. The editor cruelly adds that the demand for bloomers has shown a remarkable increase.

MODERN PROVERBS.

Luck in business means application.

No man can make a permanent success of a swindle. He may seem to make money and fame for the time being, but watch his wind up—Harry Hill, Coal Oil Johnnie and others.

Man is born without being asked if he wishes to be brought into the world. His object as long as he is on earth should be the pursuit and attainment of happiness. This is an honorable calling.

MISERY OF MAL DE MER.

Sufferers Have No Regard for Conventionality.

Bishop Potter is credited with telling the story which, more aptly than the thousands of other stories on the same subject, illustrates the abject misery and utter irresponsibility of seasickness:

"I was coming from Liverpool upon one of the famous liners," says Bishop Potter, "and although the sky was clear and the weather warm, a somewhat tempestuous sea had occasioned more than the usual amount of seasickness among the passengers. As I paced the deck one afternoon I noticed a lady reclining upon one of the benches, and the unearthly pallor of her face and the hopeless languidity of her manner, indicated that she had reached that state of collapse which marks the limit of seasickness.

"Touched by the piteous spectacle, I approached the poor creature, and in my most compassionate tone I asked, 'Madam, can I be of any service to you?'

"She did not open her eyes, but I heard her murmur faintly, 'Thank you, sir, but there is nothing you can do—nothing at all.'

"'At least, madam,' said I, tenderly, 'permit me to bring you a glass of water.'

"She moved her head feebly, and answered, 'No, I thank you—nothing at all.'

"'But your husband, madam,' said I, 'the gentleman lying there with his head in your lap—shall I not bring something to revive him?'

"The lady again moved her head feebly, and again she murmured faintly and between gaps, 'Thank you, sir, but—he—is—not—my—husband. I—don't—know—who—he—is!"

A Fortuna e Accident.

"I am lost!" the prima donna sobbed. "My years of hard study have gone for nothing!"

"Alas, what is the matter?" asked her maid.

"My prospects are ruined, all through a wretched accident. Just as I was approaching the end of my aria a horrid bug flew on the stage and lit on my neck!"

"And you screamed?"

"I did. What else could I do? It was my last scene and I had no chance to redeem myself."

The bell sounded and the maid announced a man from the theatre.

"Show him in," said the prima donna. "I may as well meet my fate at once. It is my dismissal from the company."

"'Scuse me, ma'am, fur disturbin' ye," said the visitor, "but de manager wants to know did you run away from your curtain recall 'cause you was took sick."

"No. I am perfectly well."

"All right. That'll ease his mind. He says that screech you let out at the windup was the finest high C he's heard in years and you've got the town crazy over you."—Washington Evening Star.

A Great House.

An actor who plays juvenile roles met a leading man on the Rialto. The leading man was dressed in deep black. There was a wide band of crape on his hat, and he had discarded the patent leather shoes an actor loves for shoes of a subdued polish that spoke of grief.

"What's the matter," asked the juvenile.

"My father is dead," answered the leading man, in a heart-broken voice.

The juvenile expressed his sympathy.

"When did he die?" he asked.

"Last week. We buried him to-day—a nice funeral," answered the heart-broken voice.

"Large attendance?" asked the juvenile.

A smile of enthusiastic delight flashed over the mourner's face.

"Large attendance!" he cried. "My boy, we turned 'em away."

Unprecedented.

It was one of those hot May days that precede a cold wave, and the fat barber who had just finished shaving a lean customer perspired profusely.

"Better have a little powder on your face, hadn't you?" he feebly suggested, mopping his own face as he spoke. "It's a warm day."

"Yes," answered the man in the chair. "Put it on."

The powder was applied, and the operator ran his fingers through the customer's hair in the usual way, preparatory to combing and brushing it.

"It does look pretty long, that's a fact," said the customer, regarding himself critically in the glass. "I guess you may cut it."

"Good heavens!" gasped the barber. "Can't you come just as well to-morrow?"—Chicago Tribune.

A Ditcord From the Past.

The fair girl gazed upon her fiance with love and tenderness.

"Alfred, my hero," she murmured, "I am sure there is nothing in your past of which you need ever be ashamed."

"Alicia!" he gasped, "there is! I—I——"

His words choked him.

"Was once a second tenor in a village quartet?"

"Alfred!"

She did not shrink from him.

"I can forgive you. At least——"

A soft light came into her eyes.

"You were never bass."

From that moment the topic was never touched upon again.—New York World.

GROWING PORK FOR BACON.

Methods That Are Employed by Virginia Farmers.

To have good bacon, we must first secure a good pork of which to make it. It may be laid down as an incontrovertible truth that good pork cannot be made of swill and slops alone. It is not by indiscriminate stuffing of an animal confined in a pen that sound pork is produced. Not by any sort of forcing process whatever, that converts a pig into a mass of spongy blubber, fit only for soap grease, can good, sweet, solid pork be made, that will cure into good bacon and remain good through the heat of summer. It requires solid muscle, firm flesh, marbled by "a streak of lean and a streak of fat," to make ham and bacon such as we have in the country homes of Eastern Virginia and elsewhere. Not by a course of cramming, then, that lays on fat at the expense of muscle and flesh, is the right sort of pork made that one can transform into good, firm bacon. A growing hog needs exercise and should, as far as may be practicable, follow a natural life, and be allowed to develop into a natural animal. Not in a "four-square" pen, surrounded by mud and filth daily and all the time, can a pig enjoy those conditions that will enable it to form marbled flesh, that marks the golden mean between too much lean on the one hand, and too much blubber on the other. The pig likes to use its legs and its snout, and it should have room to indulge those instincts. Pigs that are growing for pork should, as the different crops of the farm will allow, have the range of a pasture, where they may have grass and be permitted to glean the orchards and grain fields. Nor are the largest hogs the best for bacon. Hogs that are never wintered—spring pigs that go into pork at nine or ten months of age—are the cheapest and best for good bacon. It is even better to convert six months' pigs—those farrowed in June or July—into bacon in December than to keep them over another year.

If farmers would have rye and clover for the pigs in early spring and summer, and have orchards or nut-tree ranges where they could run when the fruit is falling and sow field peas, or plant peanuts where the animals could glean in autumn, they would be enabled to raise pork at very small cost, and, with corn or meal to finish them off, would get meat that would be firm of flesh, marbled, and fit for the best of bacon.—R. W. Jones, Virginia.

SHORT STOPS.

The best fed fruit tree is the last one attacked by insects.

It is cheaper to haul than to drive the fat hogs to the railway station.

A trotting match between the cows and the dog may be interesting, but it does not make butter.

You are under no obligation to loan to the person that does not promptly return articles in good order.

We want to get rid of scrub land and scrub farming, as well as of scrub stock. Grade up all along the line!

A score of farmers fail because they try to do something other than farming, where one fails by sticking to farming.

If your horses shrink from you, when you enter their stalls, do some detective work on your hired help, or—yourself.

Get a pencil and put your name on your large farming implements, sacks, etc. Get a die, and stamp your name on smaller implements.

It is a curious fact that some men would rather make $5 by trading horses than $25 by housing farming implements.

A cow that has to get her living by gnawing the parched pasture, under an August sun, without other feed, is not likely to make a great show at the pail.

Mangers.

Fixed or permanent mangers, as a general rule, save time and labor in feeding stock. All animals should have low mangers, otherwise the muscles of the neck become stiff or contracted by the non-use of natural exercise. This is most readily observable in race horses and stallions which are confined in stalls. For such, a tub or box should be used and removed from the stall immediately after feeding. But the special advantage of a movable feed trough is found in the case of animals which have a discharge from the nostrils, as the soiled feed vessels can be more readily and completely cleaned. Horses long confined in the cities, whose working lives are spent in severe confinement in cramped stalls with high hay-racks and feed-boxes, when from lameness or injury are sent to the pasture for recovery, or recuperation, suffer severe pain in grazing. If this is not soon discovered, the horse is returned to the owner in a half-starved condition, and the poor beast is a fit subject for the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals.

Manure for Almost Nothing.

If you have any dead animal—say, for instance, the body of a dead horse—do not suffer it to pollute the atmosphere by drawing it away to the woods or any other out-of-the-way place, but remove it a short distance only from your premises, and put down four or five loads of muck or sods, place the carcass thereon, and sprinkle it over with quicklime, and cover over immediately with sods or mold sufficient to make, with what had been previously added, twenty good wagon loads, and you will have within twelve months a pile of manure worth $20 for any crop you choose to put it upon. Use a proportionate quantity of mold for smaller animals, but never less than twenty good wagon loads for a horse; and if any dogs manifest too great a regard for the enclosed carcass, shoot them on the spot.

Spraying Apple Trees.

When apple trees are sprayed with such poisons as Paris green and London purple, it is not safe to turn cattle in to pasture until after there has been a heavy shower or enough rain to wash the poison down into the soil. One good shower will usually be sufficient to throw the poison down beyond the reach of pasturing cattle. The apples on the trees will also be washed clean, and should any fall and be eaten by cattle there will be little danger of injury, at least not from the poisons they retain.

A Bishop's View on the Bloomer Question.

William Taylor, Bishop of Africa.

I approve of anything in the line with woman's advancement which is consistent with her womanly dignity. The so-called bloomer costume, with its looseness and the freedom of movement it allows, is certainly a vast improvement, as far as health is concerned, upon the clothing women have worn in the past. One of the great reasons of woman's physical inferiority to man lies in the fact that in the past she has not clothed herself in a sensible or rational way; she has foolishly sacrificed bodily health to imaginary improvement in her personal appearance. In my work in Africa I have found that my women missionaries as a whole have more endurance than the men. They are sensible women who do not violate the laws of health in what they wear; and the manner in which they have kept at work which has broken men down proves, I think, that women are equal, if not superior, to their masculine co-workers in staying power and general strength of constitution when the conditions are equally favorable. The wearing by women of the loose trousers while bicycle riding is a distinct step toward making the conditions equal, and therefore I should examine the question as to whether women shall wear bloomers or not with a decided leaning toward the affirmative side. Unless the costume is immodest or unwomanly I should advocate its adoption. The question as to the unwomanliness is largely one of individual taste. Personally I do not consider the costume objectionable. It is appropriate for the wheel, and a manifestation of an increased freedom and a larger sphere for women, which I am glad to see.—From "Shall Wheel-women Wear Bloomers?" in Demorest's Magazine for October.

BROKE THE DIVORCE RECORD.

Judge Reed Did the Trick in 9 Minutes, 10 Seconds.

Wichita, Kan., Sept 23.—Wichita now holds the record for quick divorce proceedings. Last week Judge Reed granted a divorce within forty-four minutes after the application had been filed. Judge Jennings, of Oklahoma, claimed to have beaten this record by nineteen minutes, and a Chicago paper quoted fifteen minutes as the record for that city.

Tuesday Mrs. Julia A. Leonard appeared before Judge Reed and asked for release from her husband, to whom she had been united in 1886. Judge Reed, holding his watch in his hand, instructed the attorneys to proceed, which they did in the briefest manner possible. In just nine minutes and ten seconds Mrs. Leonard received her decree, with the stamp and red seal attached. Thus, Kansas claims the first place once more.

Judge Reed closed his watch with a snap, a smile on his face, and resumed the whisky trial that had been broken into.

STOLE MRS. LANGTRY'S JEWELS.

Gems Worth $200,000 Secured From a Bank on a Forged Order.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—The application of Mrs. Langtry to the Union Bank for the restoration of jewels valued at $200,000, which she deposited before leaving London for Baden-Baden, discloses that they have been stolen on a forged order.

The bank on August 24 delivered the jewels to a person, who brought an order in handwriting resembling that of Mrs. Langtry and bearing a counterpart of her signature requiring the bank to give the jewels to "bearer."

Mrs. Langtry declares that the order was a forgery, and has placed the matter in the hands of the police, who thus far have been unable to trace the forger or the jewels.

There is reason to believe that the value placed upon the jewels is not exaggerated, as they have long been famous. They include three tiaras, one being of diamonds and pearls and one diamonds and rubies, and a third of diamonds and turquoises, besides several necklaces and rivieres. The box, in fact, contained nearly all the gems and precious stones that Mrs. Langtry possessed.

ANOTHER CHALLENGE.

Charles Rose, of London, Wants a Race for the America's Cup.

New York, Sept. 21. Another challenge has been issued for the America's cup. Ex-Commodore James D. Smith, chairman of the cup committee of the New York yacht club, this afternoon received a cable message from Charles Rose, son of Sir John Rose, of London, challenging the club to a race, to be sailed in 1896. The challenge was turned over to the New York yacht club. It cannot be formally acted upon because it was not made in the proper form. It is thought however, that Mr. Rose will probably put his offer in formal shape for the action of the yacht club.

The best is what you want when you are in need of a medicine. That is why you should insist upon Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Printing in Colors.

The prices of colored printing inks have gone down with everything else, and it costs no more to do printing in colors than it does in black. THE COLUMBIAN office is prepared to print in any of the following colors: Black, orange, deep cherry, brown lake, light blue, ultra marine blue, bronze red, violet, dark red, green, jacqueminot, purple, garnet, peacock blue. Printing in more than one color is done at a slight advance for the additional press work. tf.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Opinions of the Court Filed.—Constables Must be Elected Next Spring.--Surety of the Peace Case Heard.--A Full and Accurate Account of the Work of the Court.

The regular Term of September Court convened Monday morning with Pres. Judge Ikeler and Associate Judge Millard on the bench. The list of Grand Jurors was called and the following were excused from serving. George Huffnagle, William Savage, Eli Sherwood and B. F. Spoonenberg. Hurley Michael's application for discharge under the insolvent law was granted. Report of viewers on a road in Briarcreek Township near Adam Michael's was confirmed nisi.

Order of sale granted in the estate of Richard Shuman dec'd.

The report of the Auditor in the estate of Alem Connelly dec'd. confirmed nisi.

In the matter of the road in Pine Township near Eliza Fullmer's report of viewers filed.

Jacob H. Fritz Est. vs. Wm. A. Kile certiorari from a Justice of the Peace in Sugarloaf Township. The opinion of the Court was read reversing the Judgment.

In the case of the Bloom Poor District vs. the Poor District of Windham Township, Wyoming County an appeal from the order of removal from Bloom Poor District to Poor District of Windham Township.

The Court held that the settlement of Henry Mansfield became the settlement of Naomi Anderson when she became a public charge, inasmuch as they had been married, and were never legally separated. That Eugene Lewis and Walter Anderson were illegitimate children and took the settlement of their mother at the time of their birth, that her settlement the time Eugene was born was in Lake Township, Luzerne County, and at the time of the birth of Lewis and Walter it was in Monroe Township Wyoming County. The Court further directed each party to pay their own Counsel fees and witnesses and each to pay half of the record costs.

Upon petition David N. Williams was appointed Tax collector of Madison Township vice George W. Andes deceased. Return to the order of sale in the estate of John Andes deceased, confirmed nisi.

In the Hamlin Estate of Catawissa the return of inquest was confirmed nisi.

Reports of sales in the estates of David Longenberger and David Kreisher were confirmed nisi.

Report of viewers on a public road in Briarcreek Township near the Knob School house confirmed nisi.

Road in Cleveland Township, report of viewers confirmed nisi.

Now came the time for appointing a foreman for the Grand Jury, and something unusual happened. The honor of this position is generally sought after, but this Jury was composed of modest and retiring men who cared nothing for glory. William Goodman was appointed but he desired to be excused on account of his poor hearing. It was offered to Wilson Wanich, P. B. Heddens, and as promptly declined by them and at last the Court appointed Daniel Lenihan and said he would take no more excuses.

The charge of the Court was in its usual clear and explicit manner, defining the duties of the Grand Jurors and the method of their procedure. The Court took occasion to congratulate the County upon the small amount of criminal business, and also upon the fact that the crimes charged were none of them of a serious nature. That notwithstanding the fact that our population is increasing, crime is decreasing. This shows that our civilization is advancing. This state of things the Court thought was due in a great measure to the Schools and Churches as well as to the Courts. That at one session when he was District Attorney, which is many years ago, there were 105 cases on the list. In the neighboring counties their criminal calendar is crowded. At the last sessions in Lycoming County there were 100 cases and in Schuylkill County there was 100 the first and 85 cases the second week, and three Judges were kept busy trying them. A large portion of the time our jail is empty.

Charles Johnson was appointed tip stave to the Grand Jury.

In the estate of Rebecca Breisch the Executor was ordered to pay in accordance with the finding of the Auditor.

At this juncture of the proceedings Judge Murphy appeared and took his seat on the bench.

Edmund Linebeck was sworn and admitted as a citizen of the United States.

The constables were called and made their returns, and all answered excepting the two from Main and Roaringcreek Townships and they came in Court afterwards. The Court instructed them to take the chairs in the Jury box as he had several matters to which he desired to call their attention. He said in substance as follows. "That complaint had been made that the Supervisors in the different Townships had not been prompt in making repairs to roads. That they had reasonable time in which to make them and that the storm of a few weeks since was extraordinary in its severity and a large amount of damage had been done. Also that complaint had come from the citizens of Beaver Township that the license laws were being violated, and that the Constables desired information as to their duty in such cases. Some of the Constables have informed him that they have visited the hotels, &c. regularly according to law, and in addition to that, have secretly endeavored to detect violations of the law. The law does not require you to do this. Does not require you to act as a spy and go around in disguise to ferret out violations of the law. You must not do anything that detracts from the dignity or honor of your office. If a citizen informs you of a violation of the law, and gives you the names of witnesses it is your duty to report it to Court. But you are not to do this on mere hearsay evidence. You must have the names of the witnesses. At the last Session of the Legislature a law was passed defining disorderly conduct and fixing penalties for such offense. Complaints have been made that dancing platforms near highways are a nuisance and that you desire instructions as to that subject. Unless the congregating and meeting of people at a public place near a highway works an annoyance to the public I do not consider it right for you to interfere. You could attend dances &c. and prevent a breach of the peace and that without a warrant. You must see the crime committed however, otherwise you must have a warrant. Any citizen has a right to lodge an information, so can you, but you are not obliged to do it. There is also another matter to which I desire to call your attention. The Act of Assembly of Feby. 14th 1889 relating to the election of Constables was revised by Act passed June 26, 1895. It virtually legislates you all out of office. It has been questioned whether they had the power to deprive you of your office. There is a diversity of opinion on it. In our opinion the Legislature created the office and has a right to revise it. We hold that there must be an election next February. Your term will end at the expiration of your service for one year. The reason for the passage of this Act of Assembly was to settle the uncertainty and ambiguity which existed under the former Act. After the Act of 1889 was passed the election came on the 20 of February. Some held that the election should be held then and others held that it did not take effect until 1890. Under the Act of 1889 no provisions were made for vacancies, nor as to how long those appointed should serve. The Act of 1845 provided they should hold office until the next election. We have given the case careful consideration and believe that the Act is constitutional. It has no effect however upon the constable of the Town of Bloomsburg."

Petition alleges that he purchased a gray mare from defendants for $180 which they warranted sound and all right. That $100 was paid in cash and a note given for the balance. That the horse is not as represented and hence the application.

JOHN R TOWNSEND,

Merchant TAILOR,

AND HATTER.

SUITS FROM $18.00.

CORNER MAIN & MARKET Sts. BLOOMSBURG PA.

TROUSERS FROM $5.00.

A Great Push for Fall Business.

What are Wanamaker & Brown after? Last year they could hardly wait on the crowds. They took out their front, enlarged the holding capacity of their store fifty per cent, sold Suits at $5 and Trousers at $2. What next?

Why more of the same sort of prices and better goods for you. We haven't half the business we can attend to. We've prepared goods by the carload. Next thing is to sell.

We'll sell—no doubt about that, we've fixed the prices where every customer is sure to become a purchaser. The keynote of the season—Lower prices for all sorts of clothes—Best Suits, Every day Suits—everything in the Clothing line.

No greater Clothes selling possible than $5 and $6.75 Suits. $20 and $25 kinds Black Suits for $13.50 and $16.50 this season. Substantially half prices for Fall and Winter Overcoats.

Prices will be no lower. Materials are rising. Iron is on the upgrade. We're told we're getting too little. The way we're selling, it will take half the money or about half to buy what you're used to in clothes. Boys Clothes, too—same rate, about one-half prices.

No change in the Railroad Fare conditions. Purchasers of reasonable amount of our goods are entitled under our rules to their carfare paid.

WANAMAKER & BROWN

SIXTH AND MARKET PHILADELPHIA

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THE COLUMBIAN.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1895.

Entered at the Post Office at Bloomsburg, Pa., as second class matter, March 1, 1888.

W. L. Eyerly is filling the position of local reporter and collector in THE COLUMBIAN office. He is authorized to make collections and to solicit job work and advertising.

A veranda is being built in front of the new house of Creasy & Wells on Iron Street.

The cellar under the house of Miller and Peacock on West Fifth Street is being enlarged.

The verdict is that Chas. Lee has the largest and best one-ring circus in America.

The new house which Mrs. Frank Kline is having built on West Street is being painted and will be soon ready for occupancy.

Thomas Gorry will have stone steps leading to his house on West Street. They are on the ground and will be placed in position in a few days.

Miss Flora Jones of Espy, has purchased two lots in Tacoma from John E. Sterling. J. S. Williams effected the sale.

C. R. Richart is building an out door stairway leading to the room over his store on Iron Street. The work is being done by Charles Krug.

Market Street is receiving a partial dressing of fine cinder. When mixed with the earth it becomes almost cement.

The delivery wagon of the Bloomsburg Store Co. looks almost like new. It has been repainted and the work done by Englehart and Schneidman of Almedia.

Chas. Lee's Great London Shows, Royal Circus, European Menagerie, Museum of Wonders and Great Free Horse Fair exhibit at Bloomsburg, Oct. 2d.

The appearance of the oil works fence has been greatly improved by the application of white-wash. The artist was George Chromis and he did his work in first class style.

We want our turkeys and chickens on Thursday forenoon Oct. 3rd, 1895 instead of Sept. 28, as heretofore advertised.

FARMERS' PRODUCE EXCHANGE.

The William B. Ferguson property corner of Catharine and Seventh Streets has been sold to C. M. Creveling, for $2000. The sale was made through John S. Williams.

A stone walk has been laid in front of the Kinney property on Third Street. It is a decided improvement over the old one. The stone came from the Elk Grove quarry.

The well which is being drilled at the Carpet Works has reached the depth of 229 feet and still no water. They are determined to get water and will go deeper.

Abram Eckert, who shot Fred Bittenbender at Nanticoke on July 6th, was convicted of murder in the first degree at Wilkes-Barre last Friday. Eckert was born in this county.

Chas. Lee's Great London Shows are the only shows in America that allow no swindling schemes. A show of pure entertainment. Bloomsburg, Oct. 2d. Admission only 25c.

Gidding & Co. desire to announce to their customers that owing to a religious holiday their store will be closed from six o'clock Friday evening until 6 o'clock Saturday evening at which time it will be reopened. Their patrons intending making purchases will please take notice of this announcement.

"Emperor" the terrific, untamable is coming with the Chas. Lee's show.

The appearance of the Mill wagon of Geo. M. Lockard has been greatly changed. A canvas top has been placed on it.

We notice by the Hazleton Plain Speaker that the Agricultural Society has employed the Liberty Band of Hazleton to play at the Fair Ground, on Saturday Oct 12th.

The fact that winter is approaching is shown by the large quantity of coal which is being unloaded at the Steam Plant. It will not be long ere it will be in full operation.

The boiler at the Oil Works has been undergoing extensive repairs. It is now as good as new. The work was done by John Kelly, assisted by George Cromis.

Eugene F. Carpenter, entertained about thirty of his friends at his residence on Fifth Street one evening last week. They report having had an enjoyable time.

The new house of George Cromis on reservoir hill is nearly ready for occupancy. It is now in the hands of the painters. George will have a nice home when it is completed.

C. W. McCaslin, who was so unfortunate as to step upon a nail and inflict an ugly wound in his foot is hobbling around. The adage is "look before you leap," it had better be, look before you step.

The frame houses belonging to Mr. Ratti below the Silk Mill are being repainted. Real estate in his hands is not allowed to depreciate by reason of neglect. It adds greatly to their appearance.

T. M. Dawson's new house on South Market Street is nearly completed, and it is one of the finest in that section of the town. He is now laying a cement walk from the pavement to the house.

The maple tree which for years has been standing in the pavement along the Third Street side of the property of Louis Cohen has been removed. The others are being trimmed and it makes a great improvement in the appearance of his property.

The buildings used by E. A. Rawlings in his business on Centre Street are being enlarged. An addition is being built to the work shop, greatly increasing its size. This became necessary in order to accommodate the large steam boiler which he has recently purchased.

There will be an attraction at the next Fair never seen there before. We refer to the magic swing which William Houghton is having built. It is inside a large building which has been erected for this purpose. It is so constructed that several can swing at one time, and is pronounced by those who have had experience with them as being something fine.

We want 100 turkeys—hens, to weigh not less than 10 lbs. each, gobblers to weigh not less than 12 lbs. each. We want 75 chickens, not to weigh less than 4 lbs. each. The above to be delivered Thursday morning, Oct. 3rd. 1895, not before that date nor after that date, unless by special arrangement. Cash paid when fowls are delivered.

FARMERS' PRODUCE EXCHANGE,
2t. Bloomsburg, Pa.

Rev. A. W. Hontz, formerly pastor of the M. E. Church at Jamison City was compelled to give up his work there about a year ago, on account of poor health. For some time past he has resided near Shickshinny, and on the 11th inst. he moved here with his family, and is residing on Normal Hill in Mrs. Worthington's property. Until his health permits him to resume his pastoral duties, he has engaged in the life insurance business, and represents the New York Life Insurance Co.

Mrs. M. E. Keller, has purchased the house and lot of ground owned by A. M. Dewitt on West Second Street for the sum of $1500. The sale was effected through the real estate agency of M. P. Lutz & Son. The property is a very desirable one, having been recently erected.

Mr. William Rabb, wife and oldest daughter have gone to Philadelphia, which place they will make their home for some time. Their son Charles, is a student in the Dental Department of the University of Pennsylvania and this change of residence is made so as to provide him a home during his college course.

A very enjoyable time was had by all those who were fortunate enough to secure an invitation to the oyster supper given by Miss E. Q. Logan and her assistant in their dress-making establishment on Tuesday evening. In addition to eating oysters, which however was the principal feature of the evening, games and different kinds of amusements came in for a share of their attention.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Judge Ikeler heard argument of counsel in chambers last Friday in the case of Jacob H. Fritz Est vs. Wm. A. and John Kile. A. L. Fritz, and R. R. Little Esqs., represented the parties in interest. It was a certiorari from the proceedings of the Justice of a Peace in Sugarloaf Township.

"In the Foot-Hills" was produced at the Academy of Music last evening before a large audience. The play is in four acts, and the scene laid in Colorado during 1873, thereby allowing plenty of opportunity for startling situations, daring adventures and exciting episodes. The play has strong merits. It is ably interpreted by Orson Clifford, who by the way is well known in this city. His support is the best seen at the Academy for a long while. The audience was brimful of enthusiasm, and the play was given with remarkable smoothness. Curtain calls were given at the end of each act. Mr. Clifford received a number of handsome floral pieces from the body of Knights of Pythians which turned out to greet their brother member.—Chicago Herald, Feb. 5th, 1895.

There are plays without number, to be sure, of all sorts and descriptions, but the one now on the Standard, "In the Foot-Hills," and which received its first representation at that theatre last evening, is the best I have ever seen. Mr. Orson Clifford as Hank Saxton, the hero, is at home in his character, and physically and otherwise gives a magnificent rendition of his role. The cast was all that could be expected, and included some faces well known in Philadelphia.—Philadelphia Item, Dec. 26th, 1894.

The new comedy drama, entitled "In the Foot-Hills," was presented for the first time at the Star Theatre last evening. The house was packed from pit to dome and the audience proved enthusiastic. The scene of the play is laid in Colorado during the year 1873, and the plot is strictly original, is full of exciting as well as entertaining situations. The company is A No. 1, headed by the young Brooklyn favorite, Mr. Orson Clifford. —Brooklyn Times, Jan. 15th, 1895.

"In the Foot Hills" will be at the Opera House Friday, Sept. 27.

Sunday School Institute.

The Sunday School Institute held at Espy last week was a success in every particular. The exercises were in charge of J. C. Creveling District President and the Methodist Church in which it was held was crowded. The praise service was conducted by F. B. Hartman of this place assisted by Mr. Purman. The orchestra of the Y. M. C. A. were present and added greatly to the pleasure of the occasion. The program which consisted of addresses by Rev. B. C. Conner, and Rev. P. A. Heilman were interspersed with music by the male Quartette, a solo by Miss Vida Miller and one by O. H. Yetter. About thirty-five of the Sunday School workers o this place were present.

WASHINGTON.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22, 1895.

When a man gives information to an enemy in time of war he is regarded as a public enemy and upon proof of his guilt he is executed and buried in a traitor's disgraced grave. But these is no way to punish those who prove themselves to be still worse enemies of the country by trying to precipitate a financial panic through misrepresentation of the condition of the nation's finance and of the intentions of the administration. A private individual can, through appeal to the courts, have the man who seeks to injure his credit and commercial standing by making untrue and partially true but misrepresenting statements punished, but members of the administration have no way of reaching the men who, solely for a partisan purpose, are daily writing and circulating attacks upon the credit of the U. S. in the shape of willful misstatements concerning the Treasury and the intention of Secretary Carlisle. Men who bring on a financial panic do a thousand times more harm than those who betray an army on the eve of battle, and there ought to be some way of punishing them as traitors to their country. If that is not feasible, Congress should at least so legislate that the government, through the heads of the executive departments, should have the same right to have a newspaper writer or editor arrested for criminal libel as the citizen now has. With such a law upon our statute books the present partisan misrepresentations of President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle in republican newspapers would not be possible, and the probabilities of financial panic would be decidedly lessened.

About as near half of the administration as could be got at attended the dedication of the battlefield of Chickamaugua as a national park. Vice-President Stevenson and Secretaries Lamont, Herbert, Smith and Attorney General Harmon going, and Secretaries Olney, Carlisle, Morton and Postmaster General Wilson remaining in Washington. Secretary Carlisle expected to have gone, but circumstances, aided by unpatriotic misrepresentations, made it advisable that he should remain at his post.

A gentleman who has recently been in Florida on business said: "Senator Call in advocating the early recognition of the Cuban revolutionists by this government speaks for a very large majority of the people of Florida. This sympathy for the Cubans is worthy to be classed high, too, when it is remembered that Florida is yearly becoming a greater rival of Cuba in the production of tobacco used in the manufacture of fine cigars."

Secretary Lamont's action in advancing out of his own pocket the money to make up the shortage in paying the June salaries of the officers and men of the army is unprecedented but highly creditable. Had he not done so they would have had to wait for Congress to rectify the error that made the shortage before they could get their salaries.

Senator Vest indignantly denies the authenticity of the recently published interview which made him announce a change of front on the silver question, and says he is still for free coinage at 16 to 1, as he has always been.

Hon. J. W. Judd, U. S. District Attorney for Utah, is visiting Washington. He says: "There is much in the situation in Utah to make the democrats hopeful of electing their State ticket and two U. S. Senators. I believe that it is not putting it one whit too strong to say that our chances of success are fully equal to those of the opposition. Utah has enjoyed two successive seasons of good crops, and the condition of business is satisfactory. The people are feeling very good over the return of better times, and that will inure to the benefit of the democracy. If we carry the Territory this year it is almost a sure thing that it will go the same way in '96.'

The general impression seems to be that the Lawyers of Mora displayed a monumental cheek when they filed a protest against the action of Secretary Olney in accepting a settlement of the Mora claim without compelling Spain to pay the interest from the date of the claim. Secretary Olney will take no notice of the protest. He did not act in this matter as the attorney or collector for Mora, but as the representative of the United States government. So far as this government is concerned the settlement was final.

Why Not You?

When thousands of people are taking Hood's Sarsaparilla to overcome the weakness and languor which are so common at this season, why are you not doing the same? When you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla has power to cure rheumatism, dyspepsia and all diseases caused by impure blood, why do you continue to suffer? Hood's cures others, why not you?

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient. 25c.

The Passing of the Locomotive.

There is something almost pathetic in the spectacle of the steam locomotive engaged in a hopeless fight with the all-conquering trolley. We can all remember Mr. Ruskin's diatribe against railways, and there are some of us who can go back to a day when it was a distinction to have been a European traveller. A man who had made the grand tour was familiarly known as a Hadji, and presumably entitled to the privilege of wearing a green turban, if it so pleased him. And then came steam, which changed all that; and now it is electricity, and piston-rods and cylinder boxes are doomed to swell the dust heap along with the post-horns and leathern curtains of the stage-coach.

The trolley is cheaper and more effective, and that tells the story. Where we used to build branch railroads we now put up a trolley line, saving both in initial cost and in subsequent operating expenses. Road wagon and private carriages to run independently over a system of trolley lines extending in a vast net-work throughout creation are a possible feature of the near future, and in the mean time experiments are being made on the great trunk lines looking towards an entire change in motive power. One of the New England railways has already introduced the trolley on branch lines; the big electric motor built for the Baltimore and Ohio Company has more than fulfilled expectations; an electric supply company has taken the contract to turn the elevated railroads of New York city into trolley lines; and, according to newspaper reports, a syndicate is to construct an electric road between Chicago and New York, upon which the journey of a thousand miles is to be regularly made inside of six hours. The change is inevitable, and in logical accordance with the spirit of the age.

And yet one may be permitted to think with a fleeting regret of the old order that is changing so rapidly before our very eyes. There was a certain element of picturesqueness, Mr. Ruskin to the contrary, in locomotion by steam. The engine itself, an uncouth Frankenstein, with stertorous lungs and heart of fire, was yet irresistibly attractive in its very ugliness, and commanded respect as the visible embodiment of a mighty power. And then the fast trains, with their fascinating popular nomenclature, "The Flying Dutchman," "The Wild Irishman," and our own "Limited" and "Exposition Flyer." It was a distinction in itself to have been a passenger on the "Scotsman" or the "Cannon-Ball," just as in the old days it was a matter of pride to have had one's name inscribed on the booking-sheet of the "Royal George" or the "West of England Mail." How prosaically it will read on the time-tables of the future: "Cars for Chicago and San Francisco will be run on ten minutes' headway; to Jerusalem, Kamtchatka, and Far Cathay every half-hour."—Harper's Weekly.

A Great Offer.

The "Twice-a-Week" edition of the New York World (formerly the Weekly) has proved a phenomenal success. It is a Semi-Weekly of six pages, mailed Tuesdays and Fridays; eight columns to the page; forty-eight columns each issue. It gives the news fully half a week ahead of any weekly paper, and, at the same time, retains all the literary, agricultural, miscellany and other features which made the Weekly World so popular. Yet the price is only $1.00 a year. For sample copies address THE WORLD, N. Y.

Arrangements have been made by which we can furnish this paper and the Twice-a-Week New York World all for $1.75 a year. Take advantage of this offer and get your own local paper and the Twice-a-Week World at this special rate. tf.

A Difference of Opinion.

Dr. A. Ritcher, member for Lycoming county of the State Board of Health, has ordered the Pennsylvania railroad to remove 1,000 feet of the embankment at the river bridge east of Williamsport. This embankment, it is contended, is the cause of much of the overflow in times of high water in the Susquehanna river. Superintendant Robert Nelson says the idea of Dr. Ritcher is foolish. The railroad runs upon the top of the embankment.

OUT OF POLITICS.

W. U. Hensel Retires to Attend to Private Business.

W. U. Hensel has sent the following to the editors of the Lancaster Examiner:

"In what purports to be your own account of the proceedings of the late Democratic State Convention at Williamsport, the following appears in your newspaper of the 12 inst:

"Among those who labored most industriously to defeat Judge McCarthy was ex-Attorney General Hensel, who, it is alleged, vowed that Lancaster should not send one delegate for McCarthy.

"These statements are not true, as you might easily have ascertained. On the contrary, the facts are that:

"1. I was not at the State Convention, being engaged in the trial of a cause in the Lancaster county courts from Tuesday morning until Thursday evening.

"2. I did not 'labor most industriously to defeat Judge McCarthy.' I did not seek in any way to influence any delegate from this or any other district or county to vote for or against any candidate before the convention.

"While I am at it, let me say to you and to all whom it may concern, that henceforth I propose to take no part whatever in politics except that of a single, private citizen, responsible to myself alone. I will not be a member of any party committee, a delegate to any political convention, a participant in any party caucus, council or conference; I will not seek in any way to influence appointments or nominations, nor will I be in any degree responsible for them.

"I believe in an absolutely nonpartisan judiciary; in a strictly business administration of municipal affairs, and in the total eradication of the improper use of money at primary or general elections; and I will exercise the right to vote hereafter according to these beliefs regardless of any partisan direction.

"Subject to this reservation, I am and propose to remain, a Democrat, my vote and voice and pen and money shall be, as heretofore, at the service of the Democratic party if needed or asked for to aid in any legitimate way the election of its candidates, local, state or national, whenever they are fairly nominated and truly representatives of Democratic principles.

"I have no doubt this expression will be misunderstood by some cherished friends, and I know it will be misrepresented by some malignant enemies. While all this may give me some concern, it will not be my fault. Nor will it influence me to depart from the course I have marked out for myself, to give to my profession and private business a large portion of that time and energy which for nearly twenty-five years I have devoted to party politics.

"This shall be my 'last word' on this subject."

BOARD WANTS TO STAY.

State Agriculturists Object to Being Legislated Ont of Office.

The state board of agriculture at its annual meeting next January will adopt measures to prevent it from being legislated out of existence. The act enacted by the last legislature creating the department of agriculture seeks to abolish the board by retiring one third of its membership annually. The law was loosely drawn and its provisions are so contradictory that members of the board claim it is nugatory and cannot be enforced so far as it relates to that body.

The general appropriation bill appropriates $2,000 to the board for the next two years with the provison that "no vacancy in its membership shall hereafter be filled." Attorney General McCormick has notified Secretary Edge that members of the board cannot be allowed their expenses out of this appropriation for attendance upon the annual meetings if they fill vacancies in the membership as they exist. The board will probably refuse to accept the appropriation and receive new members at its annual meetings in 1896 and 1897 and then go before the next legislature and endeavor to secure the enactment of a law to keep it intact and authorize it to receive the appropriation.

No mystery about it. When the Shakers offered some time ago to give away a bottle of their Digestive Cordial to any one who might call at their New York office, there was a great rush and a great many people thought they were crazy.

Subsequent events prove it to have been a very clever advertising transaction, for although they gave away thousands of bottles, it was in the end profitable; nearly every one that took a free bottle came back for more and paid for it with pleasure, saying they had derived better results from its use than from any other medicine they had ever used.

There is nothing so uniformly successful in the treatment of stomach troubles as the Shaker Digestive Cordial, and what is better than all, it relieves at once.

Laxol, the new form of Castor Oil is so palatable that children lick the spoon clean.

Lippincott's Magazine for October, 1895.

The complete novel in the October issue of Lippincott's, "My Strange Patient," contains some adventures that are by no means commonplace. The author, William T. Nichols, though hitherto little known, has a story to tell, and knows how to tell it in a way to catch the reader's interest in his first paragraph and hold it unfalteringly to the end.

The other tales of this number are "The Train for Tarrow's," by Virginia Woodward Cloud, and "Carroll's Cows," by E. L. C.

In an article at once crisp and solid, Fred. Perry Powers discusses "Ethics and Economics," and shows that the world's business must of necessity be conducted on business principles, and that considerations of philanthropy and sentiment, while of value in their proper place, are secondary, not primary. This paper is well fitted to prick some current popular delusions.

Theodore Stanton supplies some facts concerning "French Roads," showing the vast improvements made of late in the department of the Tarn. Marion Manville Pope writes of "The Highways of the World," and John Paul Bocock describes Van Gestel's explorations "Inside New Guinea."

Elizabeth S. Perkins tells the brief tale of "The King of Rome," otherwise the Duke of Reichstadt, Napoleon's son. The distance between expectation and fulfilment has seldom been greater than in the life of this unlucky princeling.

A question vital to housekeepers, that of "Domestic Service," is discussed by Mary C. Hungerford. Minnie J. Conrad points out "How They Differ"—i. e., men and women.

The poetry of the number is by Edith M. Thomas, Martha T. Tyler, and Clinton Scollard.

How Editors Are Treated in China.

Nineteen hundred editors of a Pekin paper are said to have been beheaded. Some would shudder at such slaughter, who are heedless of the fact that Consumption is ready to fasten its fatal hold on themselves Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the efficient remedy for weak lungs, spitting of blood, shortness of breath, bronchitis, asthma, severe coughs, and kindred affections.

Stamps, La Fayette Co., Arkansas.

DR. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir—I will say this to you, that consumption is hereditary in my wife's family; some have already died with the disease. My wife has a sister, Mrs. E. A. Cleary, that was taken with consumption. She used your "Golden Medical Discovery," and, to the surprise of her many friends, she got well. My wife has also had hemorrhages from the lungs, and her sister insisted on her using the "Golden Medical Discovery." I consented to her using it, and it cured her. She has had no symptoms of consumption for the past six years. Yours very truly,

The average church the world over is crippled more by the inconsistencies of its membership than by all of its open foes. Glance about you any prayer meeting night or a Sunday morning and note the large number of church members standing about talking politics or ripping some neighbor up the back and dissecting character. St. Paul would have a hard time in evangelizing such a community.

A monument is to be erected to Andrew J. Curtin, the War Governor of Pennsylvania, at Bellefonte. An appeal to every veteran soldier in the state has been made by the Centre County Veteran club, which itself has appropriated $500 for the purpose. Ex-Governor J. A. Beaver, who is chairman of the fund, and Governor Hastings have each subscribed $500. It is hoped to raise $15,000.

D. P. Wuller, a prominent Butler druggist, has been sentenced to pay a fine of $2,500 and undergo imprisonment in the county jail for 8 months, for selling liquor on Sunday and to habitual drunkards.

Where did I get this dreadful cough?

No matter; the great question is, How shall I get rid of it? Use THE PINEOLA BALSAM, a soothing combination of the remedies nature has put in the pine and other balsamic trees. It cures the inflammation and tickling in the throat and if taken in time will prevent the spread of the disease to the lungs. Ely's Pineola Balsam is strongly recommended in cases of asthma. Twenty-five cents is the price. Tell the neighbors about it.

A Very Thirsty Dog.

A young Wissahickon man, so the tale goes, owned a dog of mongrel breed, which had added to its one great undesirable quality of low birth the more offensive one of the mange. The young man determined to sever his connections with the animal, and with that end in view he secured a large washtub and put staples in the inside of it, with robes attached to them, to securely hold the dog, and keep its head under water. He caught the dog just as it came in after a long tramp in the dusty roads. The doomed animal was preparing to slake its thirst at the hydrant, when its master grabbed it and tied it down in the tub. Then he turned on the water, and let it run until the dog's head was totally submerged. He couldn't bear to see the poor brute suffer, so he went away for a quarter of an hour. He came back, expecting to find the dog dead. Strange to say, however, the dog was very much alive. There was no water in the tub. Neither was there any leak in it. The dog had simply quenched his thirst.—Philadelphia Record.

WOMAN AND HER WAYS.

Mother Bikerdyke, famous among Western war nurses, now lives at Russell, Kan., aged 78.

Joseph Manuel, aged 98, and his wife, aged 96, have just celebrated at Kennebunkport, Me., the seventy-fifth anniversary of their wedding.

One room of Mrs. John A. Logan's house at Washington is full of medals, flags and hundreds of other souvenirs of her dead husband.

Mme. Casimer-Perier, wife of the ex-President of France, is an enthusiastic bicycler. Her husband knows what the turn of fortune's wheel is.

When Gov. Richards, of Wyoming, leaves the Capitol his daughter, aged 19, who is his private secretary, becomes Governor in everything but the name.

Mrs. Alexander Campbell, of Montague, P. E. I., gave birth to five daughters on a recent Sunday. Her husband is a tailor and is in his eighty-fourth year.

The story that a girl in Oakland, Cal., jumped through a plate glass window to avoid being kissed by a young man at a church festival, lacks versimilitude for reasons other than the thickness of plate glass.

Mrs. Harriet Maxwell Converse, born in Elmira, and now a resident of New York city, although of Caucasian ancestry, is a chief and the custodian and adviser of the Six Nations of New York Indians. For three generations her family has held like honors.

Ralph Iron (Olive Schreiner) is described as a small, lively woman, with nothing of the sadness of her stories. Two years ago Miss Schreiner married Mr. Cronwright, a member of the Colonial Parliament. It is said that, instead of her taking his name, he gave up his own for hers.

Mrs. Zoe Marcos, aged 70 years, of Fond du Lac, Wis., has just brought suit for breach of promise of marriage against Francis Pellant, aged 81 years, of Martinette. Mr. Pellant avers he is, and always has been ready to marry the lady, but there seems to be some difficulty interposed by his children.

Mistral, the Provencal poet, married to oblige his mother, who said to him regularly: "What will your life be like without wife and child when I am gone?" Remembering a little girl with pretty eyes whom he had seen at Dijon ten years before, the poet set out in quest of her, found her, a girl of 19, and married her.

Miss Whitney, the accomplished daughter of the ex-Secretary, whose engagement is announced, has had probably more "pin money" than any other girl in New York, for she is her father's idol. She dresses with great simplicity and richness, is devoted to music, books and art, and has won the love of the poor by her generosity. She deserves all that love can bestow, and the indications are that she hasn't made a mistake.

"I never argue with a woman," remarked a learned judge; "she takes everything personally." The indications are that the women who are living the "broad, full, free large life" have really not yet wholly obliterated from their emancipated makeups this fatal feminine tendency to take "everything personally." Poor Lord Tweedmouth, in a recent speech made in England, lamented the electoral disabilities under which he, as a peer, suffered, and said he shared these "with criminals, lunatics and worse." Mrs. Fawcett, who took the chair at the annual general meeting of the members of the National Society for Women's Suffrage, concluded that Lord Tweedmouth's allusion to "worse" referred to women, which, of course, is highly absurd.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Wanted—A lifeboat that will float on a "sea of troubles."

There are moments when petty slights are harder to bear than even a serious injury.

Some business men are hard to please. A Vermont undertaker berates his town because it's dead.—Adams Freeman.

Three things are difficult—to keep a secret, to bear an injury patiently, and to spend leisure well.

"I conclude that's a fly," said a young trout. "You are right, my dear," said its mother; "but never jump at conclusions."

A man should always bear it in mind that at least six other men have their eyes on his opportunity, says the Atchison Globe.

"You will notice that I have you on the string," said the boy to the kite. "Yes," answered the kite; "and that is what makes me soar."

Patron—This set of teeth you made me is too big. Dentist—Yes, sir. Sit down in the chair, and I will enlarge your mouth a little.

To do what seems right may involve an extra struggle sometimes, but one may be sure that in the long run it will bring the most happiness.

"Our landlady says she likes to see her boarders have good appetites." "Well, I'm not surprised. Some women are naturally cruel."—Life.

Ideals are the engines that draw men up to the higher planes of being. It is from ideals aspirations spring, and it is by them development is produced.

The other day Mrs. John G. Holden published a card in the Jackson, Miss., Sun, thanking "all those who so kindly assisted in the death of my husband."

"Well, Johnnie," said a doting uncle to his little nephew, who had been fishing all day, "did you catch a good many fish?" "No, uncle; but I drowned a good many worms."

Cobble—I don't think the manager of the Ocean Bar House liked what I said to him before I went in bathing. Stone—What was that? "I asked him if there were any other sharks around."

"Well," remarked the professor, as he saw preparations for running electric wires through his hitherto picturesque street, "things have changed since Kosciusko's day. The poles have everything their own way now."

If the average business man was as hard to discourage as an insurance agent, says the Somerville Journal, the percentage of failures in business wouldn't be about ninety, as it is said to be now.

It is a common fact, but not generally remembered, that a cock will not crow unless he can throw back his head. If a cock is shut overnight in a low coop where he cannot stretch back his neck, there will be no crowing in the morning until the bird is released.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

There is a larger profit in growing little things and in fine products than in the larger staples, but it requires a different system of management.

The National Nurseryman suggests that originators turn their attention towards the improvement of the blackberry and raspberry in the line of reducing the size of the seeds.

For tree wounds various things are used. Perhaps the best material is tar, long used by Prof. Sargent, with excellent results. At the Kew Gardens coal tar and carbolic acid is used with entire success.

After the frequent rains and the warm sunshine look for weeds to grow rapidly. Every day lost in not destroying them means more labor to be applied when the work is commenced. Crab grass can be destroyed very easily just as it appears, but it takes full possession of the soil if given an opportunity to grow.

A writer recommends the following as a good lawn grass mixture: Forty pounds to the acre of timothy, orchard, blue grass, red top, perennial, rye grass and red clover. Timothy does well on well-drained land; red top on moist land; orchard grass is a good all-round sort; blue grass on limestone, and it is a good pasturage and lawn grass.

In reply to an inquiry of a subscriber the Rural New Yorker says that suckers, sprouts and dead limbs may be removed from fall till spring. The suckers, old limbs and dead wood should be cut out; the suckers should be removed so as to enable light to reach the interior of the tree. An orchard that is in a thrifty condition may be pastured and manured well, but, as a rule, orchards can only be kept in a vigorous and thrifty condition by cultivation of the soil.

Apple orchards are numerous, and in Pennsylvania and New York every farm has an orchard, but when the trees were planted proper attention was not given the varieties of apples. This applies mostly to old orchards. If apples are properly treated as a crop, rather than to partly occupy the ground while some other crop is grown between the trees, the orchard will give an excellent return, especially if proper methods for harvesting and storing the fruit are practiced.

Coarse ground bone on the orchard land will show good effects for many years, as the particles of bone will be given off gradually each year, and there will be less liability of loss of phosphoric acid from leaching. Potash is also excellent on orchards, ashes being very suitable.

Plan for a Vacation Trip.

"I wonder why a farmer does not set aside $50 each year for use in traveling," writes a level-headed contributor. It will be money well expended, during a couple of weeks, seeing the sights with the good wife. Perhaps you "can't afford" any vacation, let alone spending $50 on it. Well, perhaps you "can't afford" to live! What's life for if we are not to enjoy it? Get a neighbor to care for your stock and work that must be done during your absence, if you have no one to leave on the farm, and do as much for him. A little neighborly co-operation will make a vacation possible that otherwise might seem out of the question.

Some season it would be wise policy to spend a week in a busy city, not visiting friends, but paying for each privilege. Such a change would be beneficial alike to mind and body. The show of poverty and suffering of those who cannot or will not forsake the city for the freedom of country life, will be as opportune as the glamour and show of fine horses and equipages, and the many attractions. Every city is overcrowded.

Make the change of scene in your vacation as pronounced as possible. Change is rest, as Abe Lincoln used to say when after splitting rails all day he went to sawing wood. If you live inland, go to ocean or lake; the sight of the water, the air, the baths, will do you wonders of good. If you live by the water, go inland or to the mountains.

Wherever you go, take life easy. Rest. Don't try to see everything. Take your comfort. The farmer is a typical American when he travels; he wants to do everything and see everything for the least possible time and money. Do less and see less, but be more thorough. Observe how the people live and work. Note that all is not gold that glitters and that every section or business has its disadvantages.

Such a change, even if only for a day or two, lifts the farmer and his family right out of the rut. And they usually return to the farm not only refreshed, but better satisfied with the homestead than ever. This is a big, bright world, but there's no place in it like home. A report in a grange or farmers' club from two or three who have spent vacations and small sums in this way would make a meeting of great attractiveness and interest.—American Agriculturist.

Sheep in Winter.

A few sheep can be kept with little expense in winter on any large farm. They are dainty feeders, so far as requiring food free from dirt is concerned, but provided, it is given clean, they will eat as great a variety of food as will a pig. Bean vines, which no other stock will eat, except on compulsion, sheep will eat greedily. Some sheep should be kept on every farm where beans are grown, as in every crop there are some refuse beans that go to waste unless there are sheep to eat them. With a few beans, as grain feed daily, sheep may be wintered on straw and cornstalks, without hay, and they will keep in good, thrifty condition.

Muck Land on Fire.

For three months a Blackford County, Ind., farm has been burning underground, and it has been impossible to extinguish it. The farm is owned by Frank Williams, auditor of Wabash County. Mr. Williams's farm contains 66 acres of muck, which, when dry, will burn like sawdust. Three months ago fire started in the muck land. Little attention was paid to it until within the last week, when it was discovered that the fire was burning under ten acres and was still spreading. At the last report the ten acre patch has become a glowing furnace.

Precaution With Stock.

Now that tuberculosis is found in so many herds of cattle all over the country, it will not do to wait until the farm is visited by the officials. It is important that each dairyman have his stock examined and report the fact, if disease exists, as not only the health of the members of the family may be endangered, but also the consumers who buy milk, and they are entitled to consideration.

THEY DECIDE ON THE THEATER.

Poor Jack's Wife and His Idea Proved to be the Same.

"I've made quite a pleasant discovery, dear," remarked young Mr. Marigold, as he came in.

"I'm sure I'm glad to hear it," responded his wife, "I'm so tired that I need cheering up, though the whole flat is at last set in order. Dear me, I hope we shall never move again; I never see a snail without envying him his house fast to his back, and yet able to move whenever he likes."

"But you haven't asked yet what I have discovered."

"No. But, oh, Junius, what do you think. An old sweetheart of mine—we had just quarreled when I met you—is living with his wife in this very apartment building. The poor fellow seemed so delighted to see me."

"Humph. Once for all, Evangeline, I insist that you shall not make promiscuous acquaintances in the house."

"I shall do as I like. As if poor Jack's wife should be a promiscuous acquaintance, anyhow. No doubt he has always held me up as a pattern to her and it is my duty to——"

"Stuff and nonsense. I don't imagine he ever did amount to much, anyhow. I insist that you simply decline to know them at all. But I have found a very pleasant new acquaintance for you and in this very house, too. You remember that lovely girl I—I used to call upon when I first knew you?"

"The young woman who used to fresco her face? Yes, I remember her."

"I think I have already told you that she had a lovely complexion of her own and had to suffer such suspicions in consequence. I told her that you would be delighted to call upon her."

"Indeed? Well, you never were a successful mind reader, dear. I have told poor Jack, though, that I will call upon his wife this very evening."

"You shall do nothing of the kind; I do not at all approve. Besides, I promised poor Ida that you would call upon her this evening."

"Well, I shall not go. Poor Jack has evidently not forgotten me and it is my duty to be kind to his poor little wife."

"Humph. Poor Ida is evidently not very happy, either, and it is much more your duty to be kind to her."

"I don't see it in that light; I don't even know her. As for Jack, he is a splendid fellow, and any woman he would marry, even out of pique, would be worth knowing."

"Ida is one of the noblest women I ever knew. I insist that you call upon her, as I promised this evening."

"I shall do nothing of the kind. Let me see, Jack says they live on the second floor——"

"That is right across from Ida, then; I shall ask her if they are nice people for you to know. By the by, I don't even know her married name yet—she gave me her card, though. Here it is: 'Mrs. Jack Sweeting.'"

"Junius Marigold, I don't believe you! Why, that is my Jack; I don't believe he would marry that horrid girl!"

"Good heavens! So it is; how did she ever come to be the wife of that condemned idiot. I say, Evangeline, dear, don't let us know anybody living in the building; it is really much pleasanter not. And how should you like to go to the theatre this evening."

And Mrs. Marigold promptly answered: "Indeed, I quite agree with you, Junius, love. Let us go to the theatre this evening by all means."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Just Thinking.

She started across the street at Fourth and Race, but when just half way over came to a dead halt between the two car tracks. Evidently she did not see the two cars bearing down upon her from opposite directions, nor hear the shouts directed at her from bystanders and other passengers.

The motormen kicked their gongs vigorously, and put on brakes. There was a general scramble in the dazed woman's direction by half a dozen would-be rescuers, and still she did not move. The cars were of the summer sort, and the footboards would surely catch her and grind her to pieces if she was not snatched away from the danger. Years seemed to pass in the moments that followed, and just as everyone, including the policeman and conductors, had turned to shut out from their view the terrible accident that must follow, the cars came to a standstill within two feet of each other. Then she came to herself and climbing into one of the cars she sidled across it and out again on the other side, while the crowd breathed a sigh of relief.

"That was a narrow escape, ma'am," said the conductor nearest her. "What was the matter? Just got frightened, I suppose?"

"No," she answered calmly, "I couldn't for the life of me remember what I did with that sample of white satin I wanted to get matched, and I was trying to recollect where it was."—Cincinnati Tribune.

Quite Likely.

Mr. James Hyde, once a lawyer in a small town on Long Island, tells a good story about himself. He says:

"It was when I used to practice law in a little town near the centre of the State. A farmer had one of his neighbors arrested for stealing ducks, and I was employed by the accused to endeavor to convince the court that such was not the case. The plaintiff was positive that his neighbor was guilty, because he had seen the ducks in the defendant's yard.

"'How do you know they are your ducks?' I asked.

"'Oh, I should know my own ducks anywhere!' replied the farmer, and he gave a description of their various peculiarities whereby he could readily distinguish them from others.

"'Why,' said I, 'those ducks can't be of such rare breed! I have seen some just like them in my own yard.'

"'That's not at all unlikely,' replied the farmer, 'for they are not the only ducks I have had stolen lately.'"

A Minister's Experience With Heart Disease.

Rev. L. W. Showers, Elderton, Pa.: "For many years my greatest enemy has been organic heart disease. From uneasiness about the heart, with palpitation, it had developed into thumping, fluttering, and choking sensations. Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gave instant relief. A few bottles have rid me of almost every symptom of heart disease. It is a wonder-worker." Sold by Wm. S. Rishton. 6-15-1y.

Chas. Lee's Great London Shows,

Royal circus, European menagerie, museum of wonders, and free horse fair will pitch their tents on South Market Street, in Bloomsburg, Wednesday, Oct. 2d. Two grand performances, afternoon and evening. Admission only 25c., children, afternoon, 15c. This is an old time famous and popular one ring show. A grand street parade at noon with 2 bands, 100 beautiful horses, gorgeous cages, chariots, wagons and 125 people. It is worth traveling miles to see.

We clip the following from the Canton, Ohio, Daily Times:

Without doubt the best circus performance and most novel street parade we have ever had in this city, was given by the Great London Shows. Everything about the show looked bright and sparkling, and at the ground the utmost attention was paid by the circus employees to preserve order and decorum. There was a noticeable absence of the usual penny-fakir and circus hanger on. The show is exactly what they claim.

The Lambertville, (N. J.) Record, Aug. 26, '94, says:

Chas. Lee's circus gave two performances in this city last Wednesday afternoon and evening, which were very largely attended, especially in the evening, when every seat was taken and a large number were compelled to stand. The performances were excellent from first to last, every performer being a star in his particular part. It was the best circus that has visited Lambertville for many years past.

The Cooperstown Journal says:—Chas. Lee's Circus gives a remarkable bright, artistic and interesting exhibition. They performed here Friday before audiences that packed the big tents to the ring back. If all the circuses were as good as Chas. Lee's it would soon become the most popular institution in the country.

At Bloomsburg, Oct. 2d.

GRAND JURY REPORT.

The Grand Jury completed their work Wednesday and were discharged after receiving the thanks of the Court for their prompt attention to business. Their report was as follows:

"The enlargement of the vault in the office of the Register and Recorder is necessary.

We also recommend metallic cases for the public records in said vault. A book case is needed in the Commissioners office to hold law books and law pamphlets. One half dozen beds are needed in jail, and we find the sanitary condition there very poor. Better sewerage is recommended."

The Second Annual House to House Visitation by the Columbia County Sabbath School Association has been fixed for Friday October 4th 1895. Its object is to ascertain who do not attend Sabbath School and Church. Committees from every Sabbath School in the County will visit the homes in their districts and gather such information as the cards furnished them by the association demands and extend a cordial invitation to all to attend some school and church of their choice. All Superintendents and township Presidents will please see that the work is thoroughly done.

HAVE FAITH IN IT.

There is no better evidence of the prosperity of a Town or a community than the price for which real estate situate in it sells. During the past few weeks about $150,000 worth of real estate has been sold in this Town. Ready purchasers were found for it and at prices which were considered, all things taken into consideration, as being good. It shows conclusively that the people have faith in the future of the Town.

MERRY PARTY.

Thursday evening a coaching party of ladies from Berwick drove into town in Liveryman Wright's four-in-hand turnout. They stopped for a short time at the Exchange Hotel. The party was composed of the following: Annie Snyder, of Philadelphia, Dollie Fenstemaker, Mae Lenhart, Lizzie Stevens, Lillie Sitler, Myrna Tomkinson, Teresa Hehl, Eva Stiles, Mary Ruch, Lizzie Berger, Anna Berger, Dessa Marteena and Margaret Frantz.

TAKE NOTICE.

Next Saturday is the Day of Atonement, the most sacred day in the Jewish religion. It is called the Sabbath of Sabbaths, and as a consequence the stores of J. M. Gidding & Co., L. Gross and D. Lowenberg Estate, will be closed from Friday at 6 P. M. to Saturday at 6 P. M. at which time they will be opened. Purchasers should govern themselves accordingly. Alexander Bros. & Co., Max Gross and E. Maier will also be closed up.

Dr. Harter has returned from his Southern trip and reports having a good time. The Knoxville Tenn Encampment was a success, and the Blue and the Gray marched together in parade. The Knoxville people were very kind and generous towards the northern visitors. The Doctor was present at the dedication of the National Military Park at Chickamauga, and says it was a grand success. He also stopped at Chattanooga and visited the points of interest including Lookout Mountain. He advises all people who expect to see the Atlanta Exposition, not to go before the middle of October or 1st. of November for the reason that the buildings are not completed and there is little to be seen practically speaking and the weather is to warm. Any one can see a bird's eye view of the Atlanta Exposition when completed, at Geo. P. Ringler's Drug Store.

A CONFIDENTIAL CHAT

between two men or women generally develops the fact that one or both are troubled by sickness of some kind. One man is all right except his rheumatism, another has a "slight touch" of dyspepsia, another has bilious headaches, and another is too nervous to sleep well. What's to be done about it?

The situation is serious. Little things have a way of getting big. Big diseases are bad things. Sleeplessness brings irritable nerves, loss of flesh, loss of appetite. Sleepless people soon get their bodies into such a condition that disease-germs find it easy to lodge there and propagate. People die from the aggravation of an aggregation of little things. The more promptly a disease or disorder is met the more quickly it is cured.

Most all sickness starts in the stomach, liver or lungs. Rheumatism, scrofula, eczema, consumption, come about because insufficient, impure or impoverished blood is present. The diseased blood finds the weakest spot in the body and a local symptom appears. If the impurity is supplanted with good, rich, red, healthy corpuscles, the disease will have nothing to feed on. If the proper cleansing medicine is sent to the seat of the trouble, it will force out the germs and repair the damage done.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a cleansing, purifying medicine, a blood enricher, a nerve strengthener. It is an efficient tonic, aids digestion, creates healthy appetite and healthy flesh. It does not make people "fat." It makes them strong. It makes useful flesh—solid muscle. It will cure any sickness that has its source in the digestive organs, or through them in the blood.

MRS. CALEB BARTON DEAD.

The community was saddened Thursday morning by receiving the intelligence that Mrs. Caleb Barton had died about 6:30 o'clock. Although she had been sick for some time, and her death was not unexpected, yet there is always a shock that accompanies such information. As inferred above she had been a patient snfferer for some time, suffering for years from palsy, and a few weeks since she received a severe fall which is supposed to have hastened her death. Her maid[illegible] was Creveling and was married to Mr. Barton in 1862, and during all these years she was a devoted, loving wife. She was a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and could always be found in her accustomed seat whenever her physical condition was such, as to enable her to do so. She honored the church by her exemplary life, and made many friends by her many acts of kindness. She was retiring in disposition, liberal in her offerings to charity and church and will be greatly missed in the circle in which she moved.

Mr. Barton has the sympathy of the entire community in this his bereavement, coming as it does when he too is afflicted. She was born Nov. 14th 1814. The funeral services will be held at her late residence Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Fell Forty Feet.

Miss Mason Loses Her Balance and is Killed by the Fall.

STROUDSBURG, Sept. 23.—Death in an awful form was met by Miss Minnie Mason, at Mt. Pocono, late yesterday afternoon. Miss Mason, in company with a lady and gentleman, was taking an after dinner walk. The party had gone in the direction of Paradise tunnel, a mile and a half from Mt. Pocono. In looking over the rocks above the tunnel, Miss Mason lost her balance and fell a distance of forty feet.

The gentleman reached her side in a few minutes, but upon examination it was found that life was extinct. Almost every bone in the unfortunate woman's body was broken. Miss Mason was about fifty-five years old and well known to residents of Mt. Pocono.

On account of the necessary absence from home on Sunday Sept. 29th and Sunday Oct. 6th, Rev. A. Houtz will not fill his appointments in his charge on those days.

It was a good time that Harry Barton gave a number of his friends on Tuesday evening at his home a short distance below town. Harry never does things by halves.

Owing to a religious holiday the clothing house of L. Gross will be closed from Friday at 6 o'clock p. m. to Saturday, 6 o'clock p. m. It will be reopened at that time. Parties intending making purchases will please govern themselves accordingly.

The funeral of Rev. G. B. Dechant, of Catawissa which was held Monday afternoon was largely attended. He died of nervous prostration Sept. 19th 1895 after several weeks of painful sickness. He had been a member of the East Susquehanna Classis for thirty years, and will be greatly missed in social as well as religious circles.

Gidding & Co. desire to announce to their customers that owing to a religious holiday their store will be closed from six o'clock Friday evening, until six o'clock Saturday evening, at which time it will be reopened. Their patrons intending making purchases will please take notice of this announcement.

As previously announced the sermon of Rev. B. C. Conner last Sunday morning had reference to the new church project. He showed conclusively the necessity of one, and the advisability of building it now. The congregation are all of one mind on this question and undoubtedly the building will be pushed to a speedy completion. The plans for the same were on exhibition in the vestibule.

In the sweepstake race held at Milton last Friday, Grover, the celebrated trotter, owned by Aurands, of the Central Hotel of this place, took second money. They came in as follows: Peerless, owned by Thomas Rank, Grover, and Belle Graham, owned by William Caldwell. Time was 2:24¼-2:26¼-2:25¼. There was also another race in which there were two entries, and was won by Snowden, owned by Mr. Welliver of Muncy. Time about 2:35.

The sewer on Eighth and one half streets is giving the town a great deal of annoyance. The street commissioner has been at work at it for more than a week. The obstruction has caused the sewerage to back into the jail creating a terrible odor and working great inconvenience to the inmates of that institution. On last Sunday a trench was dug down Iron Street to relieve the trouble.

Another Century.

Century runs on bicycles are becoming almost an everyday occurrence. Wednesday P. K. Vanatta, G. P. Ringler, William Evans and Thomas J. Thomas started to go to Liverpool, fifty miles distant. They left here at 5:30 a. m., arriving at Selinsgrove at 7:37 a. m., and on their trip passed through Northumberland at 12:58. P. K. Vanatta was the first to complete the century, arriving here at 2:40 p. m. Evans and Ringler made their appearance at 3:22. Thomas stopped at Northumberland.

Not Correct.

"Persons contemplating marriage can save the expense and annoyance of going to the County Seat for a license, by securing the same from the nearest Justice of the Peace. This is in accordance with the recently revised marriage laws of Pennsylvania."

The above article is going the rounds of the newspapers, but it is all wrong. There was no such Act of Assembly passed. All there is of it is as follows: Under the old law it was necessary to solemnize the marriage in the County in which the license was obtained. Under the law as revised, the certificate is good in any County of the State.

WE KNOW. THEY KNOW.

We know the science of business; all of our instructors are thoroughly versed in it—have spent years in teaching it, and when pupils graduate from our institution they know all about business, too. That's why they are in such demand by business men. Our enrollment this year is far ahead of expectations, but we have room for a few more. Will enlarge the building if necessary. Write for College Journal. Tells all about us, and is free.
